Winnakee Land Trust Welcomes Four New Board Members

Rhinebeck, NY--The Winnakee Land Trust welcomes four new members to its Board of Directors. Winnakee, nonprofit organization that holds conservation easements on private and public lands, is graced with an active, dedicated board whose professional expertise ranges from top-level corporate management to land-use planning, agriculture, and public service. These four new members add breadth and strength to Winnakee's resources and bring important geographic representation to Winnakee from Milan, Hyde Park, Clinton, and Staatsburg.

Caroline Carey, with her husband Jim Langan, hosted Winnakee's March 2006 benefit at her lovely home in Hyde Park. She comes to the board with long experience in the financial sector: she was a senior vice-president at Lehman Brothers, vice-president of UBS Warburg (Dillon Read), and vice-president at Morrison & Kibbey, Ltd., among other positions.

Lauren Kingman retired from IBM in 2002 and is currently chair of the Town of Milan Planning Board. He has also served as chair of the Milan Zoning Board of Appeals and served on the town's Comprehensive Planning Committee.

Greg Quinn brings to Winnakee his experience as a farmer and horticulturist. At Walnut Grove Farm in the Town of Clinton, Quinn has been pioneering the reintroduction of black currants to New York State agriculture.

Gary Lachmund worked for Citigroup for many years, developing software for risk measurement, hedging processes, and strategic positioning. He has a master's degree in mathematics and a master's in operations research. He lives in Staatsburg and is an avid amateur entomologist.
